Steady Progress in 2012

The Center for Asia Pacific Exchange finished out the last six months of 2012 with the usual busy round of programs aimed at increasing participants’ international cultural understanding, developing their professionalism and English language skills, and providing visitors and hosts alike with the opportunity to engage in international exchange and cooperation. These programs brought our total for the year to over 500 participants in 23 separate workshops, seminars, events and special lectures.

The backbone of the summer offerings consisted of five separate Workshops for Asian-Pacific Teachers of English, of participants from various professional and academic disciplines joined CAPE at the 23rd Language and Culture Seminar, Fall 2012.

CAPE hosted its annual series of Saturday morning seminars featuring the language and culture of Asia-Pacific countries, this year offering a look at Okinawa, Malaysia, Hong Kong, and both nations of the Korean peninsula. On November 3, Dr. Joyce Chinen spoke about the worldwide lengths varying from one week to two months, catering to sharpening the professional and language skills of current and future teachers of English. Including one group of students from the International Graduate School of English in Seoul, Korea, participants in these courses took part in intensive language-training classes and special lectures in applied linguistics given by experts from faculty in the Department of Second Language Studies at UH. In addition, all of these teachers and teacher-trainees visited local middle and high schools, where they observed classes and participated in cultural exchange activities. In a similar program aimed at elementary school teachers, CAPE hosted two Workshops for Elementary Teachers of English. Participants in these programs also spent part of their time studying English, as well as attending SLS faculty lectures, and visiting local elementary schools.

CAPE and APC jointly offer the International Programs for College Students. In July and August, 85 students from Japan and Korea joined the programs, and spent four to eight weeks studying English, American culture, and presentation skills in the morning classes, and then spent the afternoon, evenings and weekends exploring Honolulu and the Hawaiian islands. Part of their course of studies includes field assignments that require them to speak to locals, asking questions and learning firsthand about life in the islands, to be reported back to class in presentations or written work.

In an effort to support our students, CAPE awarded fellowships, merit awards, and grants for housing and board to defray the cost of expenses to 60 participants. We thank our donors for making these gifts possible.

A third set of programs are designed to give Korean nursing students a chance to improve their English skills while also getting a look at American healthcare services by visiting local facilities. In 2012, CAPE hosted three groups. They also heard special lectures from faculty at the School of Nursing, and they visited various health care facilities in Oahu.

Several shorter programs also took place. In August, ten participants from four countries attended CAPE’s flagship program, the Annual American Studies Forum, offered for the 32nd year in a row in 2012. Small but intensive, this forum offers scholars from the region a chance to gather together and take a look at the themes and trends of current research in American Studies. This forum would not be possible without the diversity and depth of scholarship available through the University of Hawaii and the East-West Center. CAPE values its connections with the faculty of these institutions, and hopes to continue this offering with their cooperation.

The Leadership Luncheon Lecture series also saw an entry, with the talk given by Ms. Shelley Wilson, the founder of Wilson Homecare. Officially part of the offerings of Asia-Pacific College, CAPE’s sister institution, the lecture series serves as a foundational program for APC. We hope to see many more great developments for APC in the years to come.

Two more programs finished out the year. The week-long Workshop for Clinical Nurse Specialists took place during the second week of November. This is a unique program designed to give a small group of working nurses a hands-on look at nursing and healthcare in the United States, plus the chance to hear lectures by leading faculty at the University of Hawaii. Finally, Honolulu residents became the focus audience for three Saturday mornings during the annual Language and Culture Seminar, this year featuring talks on the Okinawan Diaspora, ethnicity and government in Malaysia, the legal complexities of modern Hong Kong, the ties between politics and economics in South Korea, and the knotty problem of dealing with North Korea on the international stage.

CAPE extends its thanks to staff, faculty, volunteers, and supporters for making all these programs possible. We look forward to continuing in this work of providing opportunities for study and international exchange to all the people of the Asia Pacific region.

that Hawaii needed dependable, compassionate home care, she went on to start Wilson Homecare when she was just 21 years old. Since then, her company has grown into one of the state’s most successful homecare agencies, employing more than 450 caregivers across the island. She has received numerous awards for her business leadership and contributions to the community, and serves on the boards of the Kapiolani Medical Center for Women and Children, and the East-West Center Foundation.

Ms. Wilson’s lecture focused on the crisis in long-term care in Hawaii, which ranks last among the United States in the number of long-term care beds available. This problem is further magnified by Hawaii’s aging population, which is growing faster than in any other state in the nation. Ms. Wilson was knowledgeable and inspiring as she outlined alternatives in long-term care for those in need. Her intention is to continue her work of helping as many people as she can.

CAPE and APC are proud to have hosted one of Hawaii’s premier businesswomen and entrepreneurial leaders at this Leadershership Lecture series. We will be offering another lecture this year, so please look for our announcement later in the summer months.

33rd Annual America Studies Forum

This year’s American Studies Forum will focus on economic, social, cultural, and political issues that are affecting America in an increasingly globalized world. From American writers and film makers, pop-culture icons and political figures, to foreign immigrants and social alienation, the theme of identity will play an important role in discussing culture, socio-political issues, and globalization. This year’s forum will also focus on topics such as the future of American politics, political polarization, and America’s status as a global economic power. All featured speakers are faculty of the University of Hawaii at Manoa, except for Dr. Perle Besserman, who is a writer and Professor Emerita at Illinois State University. For more information, please visit us on the web at http://www.cape.edu.
Okinawan Diaspora, and how it maintains its connection with home. Dr. Leonard Andraya spoke next on ethnic relations and the state government in Malaysia. On November 10, law professors Carole J. Petersen and Charles D. Booth drew on their long experience of living and teaching in Hong Kong to deliver a two-part talk entitled as a whole, ‘Hong Kong Since 1997: Resilience During 15 Years of Extraordinary Change.’ Finally, on November 17, Professor Tae-Ung Baik gave a talk about presidential elections and their relations to economic democracy in South Korea, and Professor Denny Roy spoke about North Korea considered as a strategic problem. Audience members responded positively to these talks, and CAPE looks forward to future events.

This year's "Asia Today" lectures cover China, Japan, South Korea and the United States. South Korea has its first-ever female president; China faces a regime change-over involving its highest officials; and the United States has just been through a presidential election that returned the incumbent to office. Join us as our presenters consider these and other monumental changes on the world’s political stage.

Featured topics include:

- Political and Economic Change From the Regime of Hu Jintao to Xi Jinping in the People’s Republic of China
- Japan--The Sociopolitical Challenges of Historical Memories
- Post-Election US--What Are the Asia Challenges That Face the Second Obama Administration?
- Is “Asia” Viable?

CAPE Friends/Korea Met in October

The supporters of Korea once again met at the D-Cube City Chinese Restaurant in Seoul, Korea, on April 9, 2012. Following a dinner and warm exchanges of aloha, the program began with a welcome remark by Mr. Young-Tae Kim, President of CAPE Friends/Korea, who thanked all the friends for their generous support of CAPE for the past year.

Dr. Jai-Ho Yoo, CAPE President, made an annual report highlighting the programs accomplishments and steady support of many organizations, and follow-up activities strengthening ties with alumni via the internet in the Asia-Pacific region. He also reported that CAPE has a family of over 10,000 alumni from 16 countries; 492 scholars, teachers, students and nurses form five countries participated in winter/summer programs; and 52 CAPE fellowships/scholarships were awarded.

Dr. Yoo especially congratulated Mr. Young-Tae Kim, Chairman of Daesung Group, upon creating a masterpiece: the D-Cube City, a mega-complex which includes department stores, office spaces, park, art center, parking garage, theatre, hotel, restaurants, theme park, and private residences.

A hearty Mahalo is due to all who have supported CAPE over the years, and especially to Mr. Young-Tae Kim, whose generous contributions allow CAPE to continue its level of quality programs in the service of Asia-Pacific participants.

The following CAPE friends were in attendance at this annual meeting: Mr. Young-Tae Kim, Dr. Nahm-Sheik Park, Dr. Myung-Seok Park, Dr. Choon-Hak Cho, Dr. Sung-Kyu Cho, Mr. Seung-Hwan Choi, Dr. Sung-Chul Yang, Dr. Sung-Hoon Kim, Mr. Chul-Woo Yang, and Mr. Seok-Soon Yoon.
Advisory Council and Board Year-End Dinner

Members of the CAPE/APC Advisory Council and Board of Directors once again met for the year-end dinner at the Royal Garden Chinese restaurant on December 15, 2012. This annual event is held as an opportunity for CAPE’s leaders to look back on their accomplishments for the year, which included surpassing 10,000 total participants in CAPE programs since its inception in 1980. In attendance were Mr. Matt Matsunaga and Ms. Erin Chisholm, Mr. John and Mrs. Diane Farias, Mr. Richard and Ethel Anbe, Dr. Edward and Mrs. Kamaline Shultz, Dr. James and Mrs. Carilyn Shon, Mr. John and Mrs. Maylani Chang, Mr. John Chang, Jr., and Dr. Jai-Ho and Mrs. Rosa Yoo.

The 32nd Annual American Studies Forum

For the week of August 8-15, ten participants from Japan, Korea, the Philippines and the US gathered at CAPE’s 32nd annual flagship seminar, the American Studies Forum. Course topics were diverse, covering the scholarly spectrum from children’s literature to contemporary American politics. Dr. Joseph Stanton spoke about Edward Gorey’s strange and fascinating artwork in Dangerous Alphabets. Other literary presentations included Dr. Craig Howes’ lecture ‘Slow Lives: Micro-Traditions in American Biography,’ and Dr. Mark Helbling’s talk entitled ‘F. Scott Fitzgeralds to Ann Patchett: The Question of America.’ History and politics were covered by Dr. Manfred Steger (‘American Empire or American Decline’); Dr. Deane Neubauer (‘The Role of Crisis in American Politics: Historical Perspectives’ and ‘Changing Character of American Politics’). Dr. Jonna Eagle delivered a lecture on melodrama in American literary and dramatic traditions, and Dr. Mari Yoshihara presented her ethnographic research with ‘Deconstructing the Asian American “Model Minority” Myth.’

The 82nd Workshop for Asian-Pacific Teachers of English

CAPE hosted an international group of participants at this workshop, with 23 English teachers from Japan, Korea, the Philippines, and Thailand coming to Honolulu to refresh their professional credentials (August 7-16, 2012). During the 9-day program, they heard lectures by faculty from the Department of Second Language Studies at UH. Course topics were diverse, including Dr. Graham Crookes speaking on developing a language teaching philosophy, Dr. Sandra McKay on using English culture as an international language; and of course, other speakers on teaching language skills such as reading, pronunciation, testing skills, and communication. We thank Dr. Crookes and Dr. McKay, as well as Dr. Richard Day, Dr. Robert Gibson, Dr. Christina Higgins, Dr. Hanh Thi Nguyen, and Dr. Richard Schmidt.

The 83rd Workshop for Asian-Pacific Teachers of English

The first group of the summer consisted of 26 secondary English teachers from Jeonbuk Province, Korea, hosted by their Office of Education to spend a month in Hawaii improving their teaching skills and their English language skills (June 30 - July 28, 2012). Chaperoned by Dr. Hong-Won Seo, they attended lectures and studied English on the UH campus in the mornings, and visited several schools in Honolulu during their stay. We thank Mr. Dan Nagami, Director of Special Programs at Maryknoll School, and Dr. Casey Agena, Director at Punahou School, for providing fantastic experiences for these teachers in meeting their American colleagues and students. The CAPE faculty also provided a rich and rewarding series of classes for these participants. We thank Dr. James A. Dator, Mr. Gavin Furukawa, Dr. Robert...

The 85th Workshop for Asian-Pacific Teachers of English

The Kwangju Office of Education sent 18 secondary English teachers from Kwangju City to Honolulu this year, chaperoned by Ms. Hwanna Lee. During their three-week stay (July 25 - August 16, 2012), this group visited Dole Middle School, Farrington High School, and Kalani High School to meet teachers and students, engage in cultural exchange, and observe classes. We thank Principal Arnie Kikkawa (Dole), Principal Alfredo Carganilla (Farrington) and Principal Mitchell Otani (Kalani) for their wonderful cooperation and hospitality in providing these visitors with unforgettable experiences. In addition, participants polished both their language and professional skills in the mornings in lectures and classes led by Ms. Eriza Bareng, Dr. Graham Crookes, Dr. Richard Day, Dr. Robert Gibson, Mr. Kenton Harsch, Dr. Christina Higgins, Ms. Hanbyul Jung, Mr. Myron Monte, Mr. Makoto Omori, and Dr. Richard Schmidt. We thank everyone, without whom none of these programs would be possible.

The 86th Workshop for Asian-Pacific Teachers of English

As part of its on-going interest in preparing future teachers for their careers in the classroom and as leaders of education in international understanding, CAPE hosted 24 graduate students from Gyeonggi Province, Korea, sponsored by International Graduate School of English in a 2-month training course that provided language and professional preparation (July 9 - August 23, 2012). Accompanied by chaperone Ms. Moonjay Kim, they attended lectures and language classes, and visited local schools. Participants spoke well of their experiences, and on their behalf we express our thanks to the teachers and principals at Kaiser High School (Principal John Sosa, Coordinator Jacqueline Okumura); Niu Valley Middle School (Principal Justin Mew, English Language Dept. Head Gwen Lee); Stevenson Middle School (Principal Linell Dilwith, Coordinator Leonard Padayahag); Washington Middle School (Principal Michael Harano); and to the faculty from UH who provided lectures and language classes.

The 23rd Workshop for Elementary Teachers of English

The second group of elementary teachers of English consisted of 19 teachers from Kwangju City, supported by Kwangju Office of Education, and chaperoned by Ms. Hwanna Lee. In Honolulu for three weeks (July 25 - August 16, 2012), they studied English and heard lectures from our faculty, and were able to visit three local elementary schools. We have only thanks for the warmth and hospitality our participants met from the teachers, students and principals for Ala Wai ES (Principal Sean Wong & Curriculum Coordinator, Betsy Itoha); Queen Kaahumanu ES (Principal Holly Kiyonaga & Grade 4 Teacher, Sherry Takenishi); and Waialae ES (Principal Wendy Lagarete).

The 23rd Workshop for Elementary Teachers of English

The 24th Workshop for Elementary Teachers of English

The last workshop for secondary school teachers consisted of 18 Secondary English Teachers from Gyeonggi Province, sponsored by Sookmyung University, who came for a two-month program in professional and language training (July 8 - August 26, 2012). They were chaperoned by Ms. Minkyung Kwon. Faculty for the language and professional courses met with the group on the campus of UH in the mornings. Participants also visited local schools. We thanks Principal Wade Araki and VP Gary Harada at Kaimuki HS; Principal Lorelei Karasaki and VP Joe Passantino at Kalakaua MS; Principal Lenn Uyeda and Coordinator Lori Hamel at Roosevelt HS; and Fayth Paekukui, Director of Admissions at St. Francis School, for providing the opportunity to our workshop participants of visiting their schools and classrooms.

The 24th Workshop for Elementary Teachers of English

The summer’s first workshop for teachers at the elementary school level was for 25 teachers from Gyeonggi Province, sponsored by Sookmyung University, and lasted for 2 months (July 8 - August 26, 2012). They spent the summer studying English, attending professional skills lectures by professors from UH’s Department of Second Language Studies, visiting schools to observe classes and engage in cultural exchange, and exploring the Hawaiian Islands. Accompanied by Ms. Min-Gi Hong, they visited Aina Haina Elementary School (Principal Brendan Burns); Kuhio Elementary School (Principal Evelyn Hao, Curriculum Coordinator Grace Makaimoku Young); and Puuhale Elementary School (Principal Miki St. Laurent). We thank the teachers, principals, and staff of these schools for their help, as well as the faculty lecturers of CAPE’s own classes, including Dr. Graham Crookes, Dr. James A. Dator, Dr. Richard Day, Dr. Robert Gibson, Ms. Angela Haeusler, Dr. Christina Higgins, Ms. Hanbyul Jung, Dr. Sandra McKay, Mr. Myron Monte, Dr. Hanh Thi Nguyen, Mr. Makoto Omori, Dr. Richard Schmidt and Mr. David Terada.

The 64th International Program for College Students

Two large groups of university students came to study English in the CAPE/APC program in 2012 (Aug 6 - September 1, 2012). 45 Japanese and Korean college students came from Tongwan University, Matsuyama University, Honam University, NIFS, Konan University and others. They were divided into three classes, and spent their mornings studying English, American Culture, and practical skills such as making oral presentations, under the tutelage of Greg Gagnon, Anita Bruce, Aileen Moriwake, Bryant Murakami, Irvin Lim, and Eriza Bareng. To encourage students to speak to local people during their stay in Honolulu, they had the afternoons free but were often giving assignments that required them to ask questions and interview people they met during their explorations of the islands. Some assignments took them to important sites such as the State Capitol and Iolani Palace, the Bishop Museum, and the Arizona Memorial, and they were asked to present or write about their discoveries in their class work. CAPE hopes these students found benefit and enjoyment in their studies here.

The 65th International Program for College Students

The second group also stayed for a month (July 16 – August 11, 2012), and consisted of 40 students from YIT (Yeoju Institute of Technology) in Korea, chaperoned by Dr. Ki-Mai Um and Ms. Mi-Jung Kang. They, too, were divided into three groups based on level, and followed a similar curriculum to the other group, of language, culture, and skills classes in the mornings, followed by afternoons devoted to exploration and assignments at locations such as the Honolulu Academy of Arts, the UH Libraries, and the Polynesian Culture Center, designed to further their language proficiency. We thank Mr. Greg Gagnon, Mr. Henry Renteria, Mr. Michael Rollins, Mrs. Aileen Moriwake, Mr. Bryant Murakami, Mr. Irvin Lim, Ms. Sarah Smorol, and Ms. Eriza Bareng for their energy and hard work in teaching and encouraging these students.

The 57th International Program for College Nursing Students

Every summer, CAPE also hosts language and professional programs for nursing students (July 1-28, 2012). The program in 2012 consisted of 26 nursing students from Inje and Kyungwon University in Korea, chaperoned by Dr. Sang Nam Kim and Dr. Jinhyang Yang. This diverse group of participants were divided into two groups for their English and American Culture classes, taught by David Terada, Sarah Smorol, Aileen Moriwake, and Irvin Lim. Special lectures on nursing and the US healthcare system were delivered by Gail Okamura, Dr. Pat Nishimoto, Dr. John Casken, and Dr. Verna Hanashiro. We thank these faculties for their work, as we could not deliver these programs without their energy and expertise. Finally, our nursing students always visit local hospital facilities. We thank for their cooperation and hospitality Lydia Chock at Maluhia Hospital; Sai Chantavy and Dorothy Yoshida at Maunalani Nursing & Rehabilitation Center; Gayle Oshima at Kuakini Medical Center; Brenda Singson at Hawaii Medical Center; Judy Bishop at Kaiser Permanente; Brigitte McKale at Pali Momi Medical Center; Judy Childs and Glenda Kaalakea at Straub Clinic; and Makana Shook at Queen’s Medical Center.

The 17th Workshop for Clinical Nurse Specialist

In the late fall, CAPE once again held its unique workshop for clinical nurse specialists with special lectures and hospital lectures for 29 nurses from Korea (November 7-15, 2012). In addition to hearing lectures on topics such as Clinical Nurse Specialists in Action by Dr. Patricia Nishimoto; Leadership: From Bedside to the Boardroom by Stephanie Genz; and The Roles of the RN, CNS, and Nurse Practitioners by Dr. Verna Hanashiro, they visited several local facilities. We express thanks for their warmth and hospitality to Sai Chantavy and Dorothy Yoshida at Maunalani Nursing & Rehab Center; Makana Shook at Queen’s; Betty Karratti at Kapiolani Medical Center; Brigitte McKale at Pali Momi MC; and Glenda Kaalakea and Judy Childs at the Straub Clinic and Hospital. This program would not be possible without the expertise and help of these wonderful people.

In Memoriam

We are saddened by the passing of Dr. Tadashi Aruga, CAPE friend and supporter, on March 13, 2013. He will remain in the hearts of many CAPE alumni and friends.

Dr. Aruga was a professor of Law, retired from the faculty of Hitotsubashi University. He served as president of the Japanese Association for American Studies, and of the Japan Association of International Relations. He is widely regarded as one of the best scholars of US-Japan relations. In addition, he has been a strong supporter academically and morally for CAPE since its inception. His contributions to the development of CAPE’s American Studies program in the past decades have been generous and memorable.
